CHICAGO MAN IN DILLINGER QUIZ ENDS LIFE

James Probasco, 67, Jumps 19 Floors To Death.

NELSON HUNTED "Get Public Enemy No. 11" Order to U. S. Agents.

By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 26.—Brought to the office of the federal bureau of investigation for questioning in connection with the Dillinger case, James Probasco, 67, a West Side resident, killed himself today by jumping from a 19th floor window to the alley below.

S. P. Cowley, in charge of the bureau in the absence of Melvin H. Purvis, said the government had been informed that it was in Probasco's home at 2509 North Crawford avenue, that Dillinger had his face lifting operation performed.

No one could be found who witnessed the leap, but the body landed in an alley near Adams street. It narrowly missed a pedestrian, and was badly mangled.

Deputy Coroner A. L. Brody ordered police to remove the body to an undertaking establishment.

Leaps Before Questioning Agents had gone to Probasco's home this morning and he accompanied them without objections, Cowley said. He was left alone in a room facing the alley for a few minutes before the questioning was to begin.

The next thing the agents knew was a report that a man had leaped to his death, the body striking the court of the Rookery, historic Chicago office building.

Cowley said Homer Van Meter, ace machine gunner for the Dillinger gang, also had a face lifting operation performed at the Probasco home. He said the physician who performed the operations had not yet been taken, but that the government agents were after him.

The sensational leap resulted in the seventeenth death attributed to John Dillinger and his bloody gang. Dillinger himself, shot down by federal agents and police Sunday night, was number 16 in the grisly chain that has lengthened steadily since dangerous John was liberated from the Lima, O., jail in October, 1933, over the body of the slain sheriff, Jess Sarber.

Search for Lieutenants. Get George (Baby Face) Nelson, the new No. 1 public enemy.

This was the order federal operatives were under today, and they concentrated all their powers in this new man-hunt now that John Dillinger's body lies buried in the Crown Hill cemetery at Indianapolis, mute evidence that the government "always gets its man."

Nelson, also known as Lester M. Gillis, is a product of Chicago's West Side, where at a tender age he became notorious as a "tough guy." Although he was one of the latest recruits to the Dillinger gang, he soon became known as the chief gunner of the crew. He is accused of being the man who shot down Federal Agent W. C. PEACE NEARING IN MINNEAPOLIS

Truck Drivers Accept Terms of Settlement Excepting Wage Scale Provisions.

By The Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, July 26.—Acceptance of all but the wage scale provision in peace terms designed to settle the truck drivers' strike was voted today by the employers' advisory committee.

Reports that the drivers' union viewed favorably the proposition strengthened hope the walkout would be settled soon and dissipate the need of military rule.

Of the wage scale of 42 cents an hour for inside workers, helpers and platform men and 52 cents an hour for drivers, as recommended by mediators, the employers said:

"It is ridiculous and out of all reason to suggest an arbitration of wage scale by a stipulation that arbitration must start with a minimum scale that is an increase of the existing minimum scale."

Strike leaders claim the present wage scale ranges from about $10 a week upward for drivers and that there is no definite schedule of pay.

GRAIN ELEVATOR AT CINCINNATI SWEEP BY FIRE

Twenty-five Carloads of Wheat Destroyed by Blaze Which Exacts $200,000 Damage.

By The Associated Press. CINCINNATI, July 26.—Fire early today swept through Early & Daniel grain elevator here and caused damage estimated at $200,000 to $250,000.

Major damage was confined to the elevator itself, into which 25 or 30 carloads of wheat were dumped last night, according to officials of the firm. Contrary to early reports, nearby storage bins were not damaged. Loss, if any, to grain stored therein would be confined to that caused by smoke, it was said.

The storage bins were loaded to capacity with 1,100,000 bushels of grain.

Hazard to nearby gasoline storage tanks was removed when wind took a favorable turn away from them.

A cool breeze during the night caused the thermometer to drop to 67 at 3 a. m. today, five degrees lower than the minimum of the previous night.

The Associated Press said unofficial tabulations showed these death figures by states for the entire period of the present torrid blast:

THREE ESCAPE LIMA HOSPITAL

Two Bluff Way Out of State Inmate Institution Using Finger For Gun.

By The Associated Press. LIMA, O., July 26.—Three men who bluffed their way out of the Lima State hospital for the Criminal Insane yesterday, using a finger for a gun, were still at large today as county authorities traced and re-traced the roads of Allen county for some sign of them.

Two of the men, Fred Hunter, 28, of Youngstown, and Fred Smith, 55, of Napoleon are convicted horse thieves and are not considered particularly dangerous. The other, Laurence Steiner, 35, of Lima, was committed to the institution after a number of petty thefts brought about his arrest.

The men apparently escaped with no outside help and officials believe they probably are making their way by foot. They overpowered one guard in the dormitory and ran into a corridor. Smith held his hand under his shirt as if he held a gun and the three took the guard's keys under a threat of shooting and left by a rear door.

Postmaster Waldeck of Warren Visitor Here

Postmaster Frank H. Waldeck of Warren, former vice president of the National Association of Post Office Clerks, visited Postmaster Ralph C. Benedum and other friends here today, en route to Pittsburgh, where at noon he was the guest of Pittsburgh postoffice employees at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh hotel. Waldeck will stop here tonight on his homeward trip.

AUSTRIAN NAZI "PUTSCH" ALARMS EUROPE

Alarming other European nations concerning its possible significance, Nazi forces have staged a forceful "putsch" to capture the government of Austria, imprisoning the nation's officers in the federal chancellery building. During the upheaval, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, upper left, died apparently from gunshot wounds inflicted by the rebels, and Emil Fey, lower left, minister of public security, assertedly was captured. Civil war was raging today. The layout also shows, right, Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, head of the Heimwehr (home guard) and vice chancellor, who is said to have escaped from the Nazi captors and hastily organized a counter-action; top, Heimwehr troops guarding public buildings in Vienna, and below, crowd around the federal chancellery in Vienna.

IL DUCE AIDS FRAU DOLLFUSS

Widow Flies to Side Of Assassinated Chancellor.

By The Associated Press. RICCIONE, Italy, July 26.—Frau Dollfuss heartened by the personal encouragement of Premier Mussolini, took off for Vienna today to go to the side of her husband, the assassinated chancellor of Austria.

Rising early, Frau Dollfuss told her two children, she was returning to Austria, but did not tell them of the death of their father. She drove from the villa placed at her disposal by the Italian government to the Riccione airport, where Mussolini and his wife Donna Rachele, awaited her.

Mussolini gave Frau Dollfuss a firm handshake. Donna Rachele kissed her and told her she would take good care of the children. There were tears in her eyes as Frau Dollfuss stepped into the waiting airplane.

A moment later the ship passed out of sight and Il Duce turned his racing car toward his home town of Forli.

Frau Dollfuss was prostrated when she first heard yesterday of her husband's death, and Mussolini who was to have engaged in a political conference with the Austrian chancellor here this week-end, came at once to offer his assistance.

M'CARTHY WINS INITIAL MATCH

Steady Downpour of Rain Fails to Interfere With State Amateur Golf Championship.

COUNTRY CLUB, CLEVELAND, O., July 26.—Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., of Cleveland, easily won his first round match in the state amateur golf championship this morning, defeating Dr. M. R. Seymour, also of Cleveland, 6 and 5.

Playing in an almost steady downpour of rain, McCarthy continued the sensational golf that won him medal honors in the two-day qualifying round. The smiling Irishman was one under par for the 13 holes played, giving him a record of 5 under par for 49 holes. McCarthy lost no time in his match with Seymour and made the turn five-up. They halved the 10th and 11th and then McCarthy took the 12th and they halved the 13th to end the match.

Condemned Akron Man Gets Stay in Arkansas

By The Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 26.—Associate Justice T. H. Humphreys of the Arkansas supreme court today granted a stay of execution for Mark H. Shank, Akron, O., attorney, who was scheduled to die at dawn tomorrow for the poison murder of four persons.

The stay of execution was granted to permit the supreme court when it reconvenes from its summer recess Sept. 7 to consider an appeal on the question of giving Shank a sanity hearing.

Mussolini Pledges Italy Will Defend Austria's Independence

Il Duce's Message Sent to Starhemberg as War Sentiments Stir Rome.

By The Associated Press. ROME, July 26.—Premier Mussolini assured Vice Chancellor Starhemberg of Austria by telegram today that Italy will defend Austria's independence even "more strenuously in these exceptional and difficult times."

Mussolini's message was sent as wartime sentiments came to the fore in Italy, long opposed to a union of Germany and Austria. Troops in the north were ordered ready to march on short notice.

"The tragic end of Chancellor Dollfuss saddened me profoundly," Mussolini telegraphed Starhemberg who is leader of the Fascist home guard.

"I was bound to him by ties of personal friendship and by identical political points of view. I have always admired his capacities as a statesman, his simple probity, his great courage.

"The independence of Austria for which he fell is a principle which has been defended and will be defended by Italy yet more strenuously in these exceptional and difficult times."

"Please receive an expression of my condolences, which interpret the unanimous sentiment of exaltation and mourning of the Italian people. (Signed) Mussolini."

Sarazen, Watrous Even At 18th Hole in Buffalo

By The Associated Press. PARK CLUB, Buffalo, July 26.—Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Al Watrous of Detroit were all even today at the half way mark of their 36-hole second round match in the professional golfers association title chase.

They were both out in 27 to be all square at the ninth and they shot the incoming side in 34 each to remain even. They played mechanically with the exception of a sensational 25 foot putt by Watrous on the 10th and a spectacular explosion from the creek at the fifth by Sarazen, the defending champion.

YOUTH'S LUNGS IN COURT ROOM

Organs of Coshooton Boy Shown in Poison Murder Trial Against Mother.

By The Associated Press. COSHOCTON, O., July 26.—Herbert George Webb's lungs, enclosed in a glass jar, were an exhibit today in the first degree murder trial of Mrs. Amelia Webb Wardrop, 43, charged with poisoning Webb, her son.

The lungs were brought into court presumably to contradict a claim of defense attorneys that the 18-year-old son died of pneumonia. Their introduction as evidence brought to light the fact that the boy's body had been exhumed for the second time last Thursday night.

Further testimony of Charles F. Long, a Columbus chemist, will be heard today. Long yesterday said he had found poison in the vicinities of young Webb and Mrs. Wardrop, for whose death Mrs. Wardrop has been indicted. Mrs. Wardrop is a daughter of the defendant.

The state charges Mrs. Wardrop poisoned her son and daughter and attempted to poison Charles Hughes, 21, a nephew to collect insurance on their lives.

30 FEARED DEAD AFTER STORM LASHES TEXAS

Tidal Wave Pitched Six Miles Inland as 80-mile Gale Destroys Crops, Homes.

By The Associated Press. HOUSTON, Tex., July 26.—A death list that may reach more than 30 was indicated today as the Texas coast country from Galveston to Corpus Christi dug out from the wreckage of yesterday's 80-mile-an-hour hurricane.

Property and crop damage was counted at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The heaviest loss of life was believed to have been around Bay City. Carey Smith, editor of the Bay City Tribune, said about 17 persons were missing in the Bay City and Sargent area.

Pitching a mighty tidal wave six miles inland, the 80-mile gale trapped residents of the area, disrupted communication lines, smashed fishing craft and battered buildings. Early estimates placed damage to the cotton crop alone at several millions of dollars.

The tidal wave, 15 miles in length, was reported by old residents to be the worst since the great wave of the disaster of 1875. It flooded Sargent and at Freeport rose 10 1/2 feet. Outlying sections of the city were flooded when the levee broke in five places.

At Galveston great waves sprayed over the seawall and leveled flimsy beach homes. Only minor damage was reported in the city.

Oil workers waded waist deep in water to save derricks at High Island.

NO NEW MOVE BY BIG POWERS

Britain, France, Italy Reported Planning No Action.

By The Associated Press. LONDON, July 26.—An authoritative British source said today that the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy were convinced that no new action by the three powers to defend Austrian independence was necessary.

A denial of the Italian government that it plans any action was followed closely by a declaration of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, in which, before the house of commons, he belittled the Nazi strength in Austria.

Amplifying Sir John's statement, an authoritative British source disclosed for the first time that alleged proof had been received here that the Vienna broadcasting station had been seized yesterday for the sole purpose of sounding a signal for a nation-wide revolt.

An official communique at Rome announced today that Italian troops had been ordered to the Austrian frontier, but added that this precaution was considered sufficient in view of the improved situation in Austria.

GASOLINE TAX DIVERSION HIT

State Auto Club Head Asks Writ Prohibiting Transfer in Supreme Court.

COLUMBUS, O., July 26.—A suit, asking an injunction to prevent the state tax commission from authorizing further diversion of motor vehicle license and gasoline tax funds from specific uses prescribed by law was filed in the Ohio supreme court today.

The suit was brought by Fred H. Caley, legislative chairman of the Ohio State Automobile association. Specifically, it asked the court to issue a writ prohibiting the commission from passing upon a request of the village of Moreland Hills but the decision handed down in the case would be applicable to all future applications.

The accident occurred when an automobile driven by Arthur Wilson of Calcutta collided with a car driven by James Crawford of East End when the latter pulled out from the curb. The Crawford machine then swerved into the pathway of a roadster driven by Postmaster Ralph C. Benedum, police reported. The three automobiles were slightly damaged.

Von Starhemberg Assumes Reins Held By Slain Dollfuss

Tall Nobleman Announced as New Chancellor as Civil War Blazes Forth in Province Of Styria Where Nazis Battle Government Forces for Control of Villages—Peace of Europe is Threatened.

By WADE WERNER, (Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press.)

VIENNA, July 26.—The power of the Austrian Fascists, allied in ideals and friendships to the Fascists of Italy, mounted to the rule of Austria today.

Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, tall nobleman, and leader of the Fascist Heimwehr, was announced as the new chancellor, succeeding the little commoner, Engelbert Dollfuss, who was assassinated yesterday by the Fascists' bitterest foes, the Nazis.

President Wilhelm Miklas was expected to make the formal appointment of Von Starhemberg today.

But even as the Fascist star ascended, civil war blazed forth in the province of Styria where Nazis battled government forces for control of villages. Early reports did not tell how many men were being killed although an official announcement at Graz, capital of the province, said 114 government soldiers were slain.

Styria has for months past been the scene of terrorist bombings inspired, Dollfuss had claimed, by the Nazis whom he fought in his efforts to create a "united fatherland."

Carries Out Dollfuss' Work.

Everywhere was expressed rumors and fears for the peace of Europe as a result of the stirring events of yesterday and today. Armed men were everywhere in a strenuous effort to maintain order.

As his first statement as chief of the cabinet, Prince Von Starhemberg said only that the government policy will be to carry on the work begun by Dollfuss.

The first act of the cabinet when it met under its new leader was to vote an authorization for "appropriate" financial measures for the future welfare of Dollfuss' widow and his two children, 5-year-old Eva and 2-year-old Rudolf.

Then the cabinet declared the creation of a special military court to try the offenders in yesterday's putsch when a group of Nazis stormed the chancellery and killed the country's leader. The court will consist of four officers, one of the civil guard, and three of the army, the highest ranking of whom will preside.

The government, it was indicated, will act sternly against the killers of its former leader, but apart from this punishment it was indicated that one of the subjects of most concern was that of relationships with other countries as a result of the murder.

Firing Reported Along Border. A report which was not immediately confirmed from the province of Carinthia declared Yugoslavian soldiers had fired across the Austrian border and Austrian troops had been concentrated there as a result.

It was known that 75,000 Italian troops were massed on the southern border where they have been held for the last year in readiness in case of border troubles.

The anxiety of Italy in this situation was regarded officially, and by the man on the street as well, as intense, for Premier Mussolini had telegraphed his sincere condolences from Riccione where today he was to have conferred with Dollfuss.

POLICE WAR ON RIVER BATHERS

Enforcement Officials to Cooperate With Health Board to Halt Swimming in Ohio.

Police cooperation in a campaign to halt bathing in the Ohio river, along the East Liverpool waterfront was today requested by health authorities.

Due to the numerous sanitary sewer outlets along the river banks Health Commissioner Dr. Roy C. Costello recently issued a warning of the danger of bathing in the river along the Ohio shore. Typhoid fever and skin diseases are likely to develop among bathers, the health commissioner reported.

At least night's meeting of the board further reports of boys swimming in the river near Central avenue, East End, where the St. George street sewer flows into the river, were made. Other violations were also reported near the Newell bridge where a sandy beach exists. Police were asked by the health board authorities to arrest boys and other violators of the "no bathing" order.

VIENNA ENVOY DIES IN CELL

Dr. Anton Rintelen, Named in Putsch, Gun Victim.

By The Associated Press.

VIENNA, July 26.—Dr. Anton Rintelen, Austrian minister to Rome who was jailed after yesterday's Nazi putsch failed to establish him as chancellor, died today several hours after he was wounded in his cell. It was learned from private sources.

When he was taken to a hospital, Rintelen denied any participation in the revolt, although the Nazis had issued a false broadcast that he had become chancellor.

Authorities said the minister shot himself but this was denied by his widow.

"My husband did not commit suicide," she said. "He was murdered. Why did he write the note saying 'I am innocent' after the shooting?"

Other close friends of Rintelen were arrested, including General Wagner of the Austrian army, who, unconfirmed reports said, had killed himself.

Another held was Court Councilor Boehm, a former secretary of the Christian Labor union of the province of Styria.

GOVERNOR STOPS ALL EVICTIONS

North Dakota Chief Issues Moratorium Saving Homes for Those Unable to Pay.

By The Associated Press.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 26.—Ouster proceedings similar to those which drove William Langer from the governor's chair were directed in the North Dakota supreme court today at another convicted state official, Highway Commissioner Frank Vogel.

Sharing attention with the attempt to remove Vogel was a debt-moratorium declaration, issued yesterday by Acting Governor Ole H. Olson, under which no person can be evicted from his home or business for inability to pay.

Every form of debt, with exception of those in which the federal government is creditor, is included in the moratorium. The acting governor, under the proclamation, is made the court of last resort for a creditor who believes himself injured by the order.

A petition filed yesterday in behalf of Olson in the high court asked that a writ of quo warranto be issued against Vogel, challenging his right to continue in office in the face of his conviction with Langer and three others of conspiracy to defraud the United States government through solicitation of funds from federal relief workers.

A hearing on the petition is scheduled for Friday.

ROOSEVELT IS WATCHFUL

President is Silent On Situation in Europe.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Writer.
ABOARD CRUISER NEW ORLEANS, WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 26.—President Roosevelt watches in silence the European situation revolving about the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria.

Last minute developments are constantly relayed to him by wireless as the cruiser Houston carries him on his unprecedented journey to America's far-flung insular outposts. Likewise he is kept in intimate touch with official Washington.

He completed the new railroad retirement board today with the appointment of John T. Williamson of Chicago and Lee M. Eddy of St. Louis. The three-man board which will administer the new pension act is headed by Murray Latimer of Washington, D. C., who was named last week. Williamson was selected on the recommendation of the association of railway executives, and Eddy was proposed by railroad labor leaders.

Roosevelt approached Honolulu harbor early today for the culmination of his combination vacation and inspection trip, enthused by his reception in Hilo and Kailua as the first President of the United States to visit the Hawaiian Islands.

"WOMAN IN RED" IN DILLINGER'S DEATH

Mrs. Anna Sage
Admitting that she was the mysterious "woman in red" who accompanied John Dillinger to a Chicago neighborhood movie on the night he was shot to death by federal agents, Mrs. Anna Sage is pictured in a Chicago police station after being taken into custody. Mrs. Sage, who asserted she had known Dillinger only as Jimmie Lawrence, also admitted knowing Police Sergeant Martin Zarkovich, above, of the Indiana Harbor police force, who is credited generally with making the contacts which resulted in tracking down Dillinger.

ter Baum when Dillinger mobsters blasted their way to freedom from the vicinity of the Little Bohemia, Wis. resort last April.

Government operatives also believed that both Dillinger and Van Meter had submitted to attempts at the Probascio place to obliterate their fingerprints with acid.

When Dillinger's body was placed on a slab in the Cook county morgue Sunday night, it was ascertained that scars on his face had been nearly concealed by a clever plastic surgeon. His hair had been dyed a darker hue, his eyes brows refined in an effort to change his widely-known facial appearance. His nose also had been straightened.

Find Suspected Operation Place
From their prisoner the federal men apparently sought to obtain more information about Dillinger, Van Meter and possibly John Hamilton and George Nelson, other members of the outfit whom the government has vowed to bring in.

"We have very good evidence that the operations were performed at Probascio's flat," said Cowley. He said federal agents had found ether, rubber gloves and iodine in the home, as well as a revolver.

Cowley said Probascio, who operated a tavern, had made no admissions and had insisted that he knew nothing of the operations. Probascio himself had no medical experience, he said.

DILLINGER GRAVE GUARDED

Vigil Kept in Indianapolis Cemetery; Rain Drenches Funeral.

By The Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, July 26.—The police he dodged in life stood guard today at the grave of John Dillinger.

To prevent the morbidly curious from violating the resting place of the Indiana outlaw, a police sergeant and two patrolmen kept vigil over the mound of freshly disturbed soil.

Dillinger was buried in Crown Hill cemetery late yesterday beside the body of his mother, while police lines held at a distance a crowd of curiosity seekers. The burial, originally scheduled for today, was advanced in an effort to make the services as private as possible.

A severe rainstorm drenched the funeral party.

The bandit's father, John Dillinger, Mooreville, Ind., farmer who celebrates his 70th birthday tomorrow, stood long at the grave, then returned home.

He had sat coatless in the 100-degree heat as Rev. Charles M. Fillmore, retired minister of the Disciples of Christ church, preached the funeral sermon at the Maywood home of John's sister, Mrs. Audrey Hancock.

The minister made no reference to the notorious gunman who lay in the casket, but said, "I glory that this whole family has had faith in God x x x a God of mercy x x x so necessary in these days of vindictiveness and hatred."

Mrs. Hancock fainted as the casket was closed.

DOROTHY FULL LIONS' GUEST

Chester Avenue Girl Discusses Drouth Conditions Through Mid-western States.

"Cattle lying dead of thirst and starvation are common sights today in the drouth-stricken states of the west," Miss Dorothy Full of Chester avenue, who returned recently from an eight weeks' trip through the west, said in a talk at the Lions club's dinner meeting at the Mary A. Patterson memorial Wednesday night.

"Fields that formerly were rich meadows now have the appearance of desert lands," Miss Full declared. "Crops are burned, cattle so thin you can count their ribs, and dust covers everything. Irrigation is being attempted in many places as a method of relief."

Miss Full described her trip carried her through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Washington California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky and West Virginia. She said drouth conditions were at their worst in Iowa, Wyoming, New Mexico, Kansas and western Missouri.

She told of visiting her aunt in Kansas, where a sandstorm had destroyed the garden and forced the family to purchase all food supplies. She was introduced by Raymond Leonard, chairman of the program.

The business session was conducted by President James W. Kaiser.

Village Residents In Post Office Squabble

WESTERVILLE, July 26.—Residents of Westerville are divided on the issue of whether a new post office should be built with a $68,000 fund set aside for the project by the federal government. One group claims the town needs it but the other side states the present postoffice, occupying a rented building, is good enough.

Columbus Man Holds Soap Tasting Post

COLUMBUS, July 26.—Michael Lowinger, when a boy, must have had to submit often to having his mouth washed out with soap—a favorite punishment of parents for wayward boys—to obtain the job he holds today. Lowinger is the official "soap taster" and part owner of a local soap concern. He explained that a soap maker must have a distinctive taste for soap to determine just when a batch of soap has reached the correct consistency while cooking.

MISS JEPSON SINGS IN OPERA

Former Columbian Girl Joins Metropolitan Company.

Possessing a natural lyric soprano voice adaptable both to radio and opera, Helen Jepson, daughter of Charles H. Jepson, former Columbian resident, is preparing for a series of performances with the Metropolitan opera company in New York City during the coming season when she will appear in principal singing roles in "Traviata," "Mollander," "Die Meistersinger," "Roméo and Juliet," and other productions. In private life the wife of G. R. Posselt, flute player in Paul Whiteman's orchestra, Miss Jepson is well known in Columbian county. Her father, now in Cleveland, is associated with L. Frank Smith of Salem in business with the Franklin Furniture company of Columbian.

Has Young Daughter Unusually busy with her operatic preparations, radio and stage engagements, Miss Jepson doesn't leave her professional career interfere with her being a good homemaker. She admits being very much in love with her husband and her favorite possession in this world toddlers around under the name of Sallie Patricia Posselt. Mother Helen, when asked what she considers her worst trait, responded, "Talking too much about my baby!"

Miss Jepson was discovered by Paul Whiteman's uncanny instinct for quality, and thus radio has assisted the Metropolitan in the selection of a new star—for it is a fact that the microphone pitilessly reveals any flaws which may exist in a singer's voice.

JUDGE RULES ON EXCEPTIONS

Beaver Jurist Passes on Points at Issue in Beaver Creek Dredging Case.

These changes, however, do not alter the court's original order restraining the coal company from dredging the channel of the Little Beaver creek at Smiths Ferry, but were made in disposing of exceptions filed by the defendants.

NEW GULF GAS WON 1st PLACE

LOADS LIKE THIS—on steep mountain grades tax the power of any gasoline. But in 10 out of 15 power tests Gulf won first honors. See chart below. (All tests certified by a Notary Public.)

RECENTLY, 33 gasolines competed in power tests made on famous American hills from Massachusetts to Georgia. Object? To see which of various gasolines bought at local service stations in each test area could take a car and heavy load farthest up mountain grades before the motor stalled. The motor was kept in high gear.

Results? Gulf won more of these power tests than 32 other gasolines combined!

Study the chart below. Then drive to any Gulf station—and see for yourself that there's more power in that Good Gulf Gasoline!

Share Available Cash, Firemen

East Liverpool officialdom's proposal that senior members share their salaries with the juniors in order to maintain a 26-man fire department is not establishing a precedent in Ohio, for at least two other cities facing economic problems have already adopted the plan.

Even more drastic is the action taken at Elyria, a city of 25,000 population, or about 2,000 more than East Liverpool's. Mayor W. H. Vanister has announced after a conference with the heads of departments that all city employees will go on a half-pay basis until January 1, because of a $43,000 deficit in tax revenues. The order, affecting 199 employees, will save $33,000 in the remaining half-year, and the remaining deficit of $13,000 "will be made up some way."

Under the plan, Elyria firemen's pay will be reduced to $72 a month, or $12 less than the amount received by East Liverpool's fire fighters under a 60-day share-the-salary agreement, in effect since June 1.

Toledo, a larger city, has adopted a graduated system of salary cuts for firemen in order to maintain a fully-manned department despite lack of funds. This plan provided for cuts as follows: Eight per cent on the first $10,000; 10 per cent on the second $10,000; 12 1/2 per cent on the next $10,000; 17 1/2 per cent on the next $10,000, and 20 per cent on all above $90,000.

Toledo's action was taken after 10 members of the fire department, who had been discharged as part of a sweeping economy program, were reinstated.

East Liverpool's situation is not unlike Toledo's. The men dismissed from the payroll in the lake city were juniors—the youngest—on the payroll. And in East Liverpool, unless the share-the-pay plan is approved by the senior firemen, eight juniors will be dismissed on August 1, when the councilmanic economy legislation becomes effective. Among the young firemen are some of the most efficient and faithful. Some are married, have children and are trying to pay on the installment plan for mortgaged homes. Deprived of all income, their financial plight would be worse than that of the city they have so faithfully served.

While it is obvious East Liverpool must effect some close economies, due to accumulated bills, $30,000 of which was unpaid on January 1, when the administration changed, the necessity of curtailment of the essential fire department service has been questioned. The city does not have the funds to maintain a 26-man fire department at regular salaries. In view of this fact, a temporary wage cut for all firemen would be preferable to laying off some of the men, impairing the efficiency of the indispensable service and inviting an increase in fire insurance rates for the taxpayers who expected to be protected when they, in November, 1932, approved an extra mill levy for the purpose of maintaining a 26-man department.

Who Needs Supervision?

Most Americans know what Section 7-A of the national industrial recovery act says. It is the now famous collective bargaining clause, source of some of the country's most dangerous disputes.

Inability and unwillingness to interpret the clause so clearly that all doubt of its meaning is destroyed have caused trouble in many industries scattered throughout the country.

As commonly interpreted, the clause is an invitation to organized labor to expand in numbers and influence. A minority has challenged the wisdom and justice of this interpretation. The minority's position has been made uncomfortable by sharp criticism of its motives, with government officials leading the attack.

The recent strike that tied up San Francisco has given a new aspect to the dispute. The country's attention was concentrated on developments in that city for a fortnight. Certain important conclusions resulted.

One of them was the fact that the strike had fallen into the control of radical elements. The American Federation of Labor disclaimed responsibility for it. Strikers themselves became resentful of the presence of irresponsible agitators and took violent action against them.

Another conclusion which many Americans have reached was that collective bargaining without collective responsibility can become a dangerous concept. This happens to be substantially the conviction that has prevented a skeptical minority from endorsing the collective bargaining clause of the recovery act.

Many members of this minority are staunch believers in organized labor. Some aren't, of course. They are not interested in the problem posed by Section 7-A, except in a negative way.

Those interested will find a suggestion by David Lawrence in the United States News both interesting and constructive. Mr. Lawrence voices a common opinion when he proposes that government should assume control over organized labor equal to the control it has assumed over employers of labor.

"The American people are exponents of the theory of fair play," he reasons. "If management is to be supervised by government, then it is logical for labor to submit to like supervision."

Authority to do this resides in the recovery act, Mr. Lawrence declares. In the preamble of the act there is this sentence: "It is hereby declared to be the policy of congress . . . to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate governmental sanction and supervision." Section 6-B reads: "The President is authorized to prescribe rules and regulations designed to insure that any organization availing itself of the benefits of this title shall be truly representative of the trade or industry or subdivision thereof represented by such organization." Among the benefits are collective bargaining.

President Roosevelt has the authority to safeguard organized labor from those subversive elements within it that have destroyed "united action" to promote recovery. The recovery program has fixed the responsibility of management. Why shouldn't it fix the responsibility of labor leaders also?

Far Corners

All is quiet these days on the Potomac. Under orders to build themselves up for duties in the fall, men whose names have been news for more than a year are on vacation. President Roosevelt himself is setting the pace with his ocean voyage.

One of the fall duties, of course, is re-election of friendly congressmen. This entails a combination of vacation and work for some new deal figures. Postmaster General Farley is covering ground in seven-league boots. Assistant Secretary Tugwell is explaining the farm program on an extended itinerary. Administrator Johnson has talked around the great circle. Lesser figures are out where people live, or are making brisk forays, with Washington as a base camp.

New England and the southern states have cause to feel slighted. As planned at present, the former will not collect a vacation penny from the more prominent new deal figures. The southern states, as hot or hotter than Washington itself this time of year, have less cause to take offense, of course.

Europe will not benefit materially from the exodus. Only one front rank administration stalwart, Harry Hopkins, has chosen to go eastward for relaxation. Mr. Hopkins, it is said, will be interested in seeing Europe's relief systems for himself. While he is abroad, Attorney General Cummings will be enroute to Hawaii, Secretary of Commerce Roper will be in Alaska and Secretary Dern will go to Panama.

Some of them will find their vacations made comparatively painless by official missions, which is to say their expenses will be borne by the taxpayers, up to a certain amount. By fall, they will be back in their places ready for another trying winter. They will be rested, and the spirit of the new deal will have been spread to far corners of the country and even of the earth.

A Bow To Il Duce

Two pictures of recent date are reminders of the political genius of Italy's dictator. They represent him as a farmer, a statesman turning his hand to the harvest in the reclaimed Pontine marshes.

In one he is shown wearing a broad-brimmed straw hat and grasping a sheaf of grain. In the other he is shown with bare arms toiling at a farm machine. An aviator's helmet with goggles pushed up over the front is his head-dress in the latter picture.

Both are obviously posed, as all pictures taken for political purposes are. Yet in each has been caught the abounding vitality of the man who is setting the pace for dictators. He personifies the energy that is his ideal for Italy.

One tries vainly to recall any photograph of Benito Mussolini that shows him in an attitude of indolence. For comparison, however, it is easy to remember countless pictures of other statesmen—even some dictators—that represent another extreme.

Chancellor Hitler, during his recent visit to Rome, was more than ever a limp-lamb and somewhat corpulent politician beside Italy's muscular, erect leader. Even Josef Stalin, in his baggy uniform and smoking his blackened briar, is not the strong man of the people that Premier Mussolini succeeds in being, photographically.

The United States, whose politicians at various times have pulled on overalls and smiled under floppy field hats at photographers, never has had a subject half so good as the Italian dictator. In trying to estimate the qualities that have made him what he is, it would be foolish to overlook the most precious one of all—ability to "take" a good picture. Benito Mussolini has it—and to spare. He scores a hit in postures that would make most men look worse than foolish.

Today's News Review

It's Already Smashed.

Senator Borah denounces monopoly as the cause of all our troubles, and says "smash the monopolies." As it happens, happenings since 1929 have smashed the monopolies fairly well.

If anybody has a monopoly that you would like to own, you can get it at a bargain.

Senator Borah says purchasing power must be restored to the great mass of the people. President Roosevelt agrees, combines deeds with words, according to the recommendation of the other Roosevelt, and has handed out thousands of millions of dollars, thinly disguised as wages, saying in effect "go and buy yourself something."

Hundreds of millions are paid to the farmer for not working, leaving fields unplanted and other millions have been paid to cotton growers for ploughing cotton under.

What more could you do, except gather income taxpayers together, take their capital from them, what they have left, and distribute that also.

Out of Hawaii, What?

The President, reaching Hawaii, is greeted with the friendly "Aloha," also with a remark which when "the good" Tom Williams repeated it sounded like "moloki-hoi."

The President had a string of flowers put around his neck, and then, like little children that have said "Merry Christmas" to papa and mamma, Hawaiians, like other good Americans, stood around, wondering what they will get. It must be a wonderful thing to say, as President Roosevelt can say, "Here, have a billion, or two."

What population will Hawaii develop in time, with its present mixture described by Time as 146,000 Japanese, 6,000 Filipinos, 27,000 Chinese, 22,000 Polynesians, 29,000 Portuguese, 7,000 Puerto Ricans, 45,000 whites and 31,000 mixed breeds.

These human "breeds" are intermarrying, carrying out on the little island on a small scale, the process of mixing two-legged races that has gone on ever since the first Cromagnon, gentleman type met the first Neanderthal lady type in the old stone age.

There is nothing more important than these mixtures of races, for real peace on earth and good will toward men will not come, probably, until the earth has only ONE race, and therefore no "enemy."

Dillinger, Jealousy, Cash.

Already imagination starts building the Dillinger "romance." The lady in the case, whom criminals would call "the finger woman," because she obliged the detectives by putting her finger on Dillinger, is supposed to have hidden in the woods with the bandit. Jealousy rage seized her when another woman came to join the killer and she betrayed him to his death.

The reward of $15,000 probably had more to do with the "finger" than any jealous rage.

"Jealousy is cruel as the grave; the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a most vehement flame," as we learn from Solomon.

But in these practical days there is something about $15,000 that is also powerful and vilement.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, July 26—Radio is in the most desperate search of its career for sustaining talent. Familiarities of broadcasting breed the usual contempt. And no form of entertainment ends in such quick oblivion. Ten of the most popular features on the air came to a full stop this year.

The demand is always incessant for something new and original. It has become for the artist, so mercurial is public favor, a calling with practically no future. This adjustment was totally unexpected. For, a year or so ago, the popularity of a program seemed indefinite.

Now, six months of continued acclaim is considered a long run. Because of the times or that the novelty has worn off, there has been a big slump in fan mail. The star who used to receive thousands of letters weekly now receives them in the hundreds.

The biggest audiences are recruited for the single night broadcast built up by an extravagant ballyhoo. The foremost executives realize there has come a transition period. The radio is here to stay, of course, but a big change in presentation is around the corner.

Whatever the ultimate fate of the Casino in the park, it attained one record few high class restaurants attained. Not one intoxicating drink was sold there during prohibition.

I was in the Casino a wintry night when a prominent fellow of the town came in thirsting for a high ball after a trying evening. He implored Sidney Solomon to scare up the makings. Solomon chop-chopped: "No can do." But, in the emergency, he did point to an almost covered flask belonging to a couple dancing. The thirsty man purchased his drink and, before departing, sent the lady an anonymous bouquet.

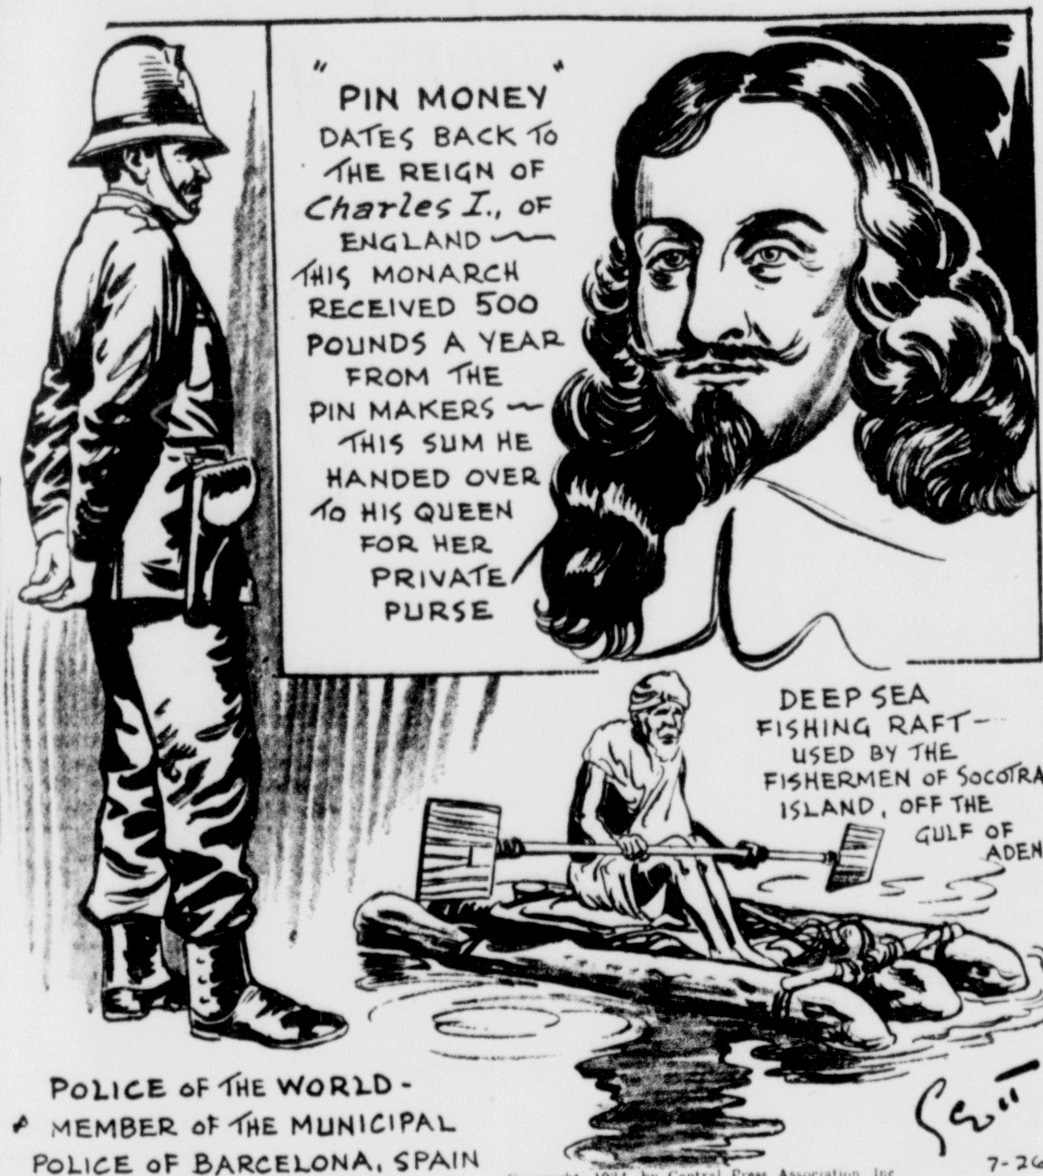

The Casino, too, gave shy young Eddie Duchin his chance to be an orchestra leader. He was a young pianist with Leo Reisman, studying pharmacy at Columbia and paying his way tickling the ivories at night. He was so engaging at improvising while the orchestra was at lunch that young ladies came especially to hear. As a result, he was given a chance to organize his own orchestra and became a sensation of the restaurant and on the air.

Gilbert White has gone back to his chateau in France, after three months in New York, likely unaware of the affection of his host of admirers, old and new. The painter, brother of Stewart Edward White, is one of the sharpest differentiators between the sham and genuine. He had a blistering contempt that would soften into humorous deprecation for stupidity. No one clung more to the old things or is so resentful of the new unless proved time-worthy. He could be warm toward a stranger or icily cold for he summed up character at a glance. And was almost 100 per cent right.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

Behind The News In Washington And Wall Street

(Editor's Note—Paul Mallon, whose signature usually appears over this dispatch, is on a brief vacation. During his absence the column will be composed of contributions from leading Washington correspondents.)

WASHINGTON July 26—Debt discussions just began between the state department and Mr. Trotsky, the Soviet ambassador, seem rather small potatoes after the big defaults by other nations which, as far as public excitement is concerned, would appear to be regarded as final.

The approximately half billion dollars in dispute with Soviet Russia is chicken feed compared to the $12,000,000,000 owed by other European nations and the almost $2,000,000,000 of private debts owed by Germany.

But, in hard times, one goes after everything, and the United States is evidently out to salvage whatever it can. Perhaps it is counting on the feather it would be in the cap of Communist Russia, the object of capitalistic contempt, if it proved squarer in business dealings than the bourgeois countries.

In this connection, a suggestion is made that, if this nation, were on mischievous bent, and wished to have a little run with its defaulting debtors, it might take advantage of a section of the debt funding agreements which never has been enforced. This says that the debtor nations, on request of the secretary of the treasury, will furnish the United States, for any or all of their bonds, genuine engraved bonus coupons for sale to the public. Also, that they will help to have these bonds listed on stock exchanges, and all without expense to the United States.

In all public discussion of the debt question, this feature of the debt funding agreements never has been mentioned, and, when the agreements were being debated in congress, only slight reference was made to it. But if used, it might produce interesting, even amusing results. It means, of course, that the United States could demand that the British, French and other debts be split up into bonds of small denominations and, then, if the governments would not buy them, the United States could throw them on the public market.

What would happen then? If the British government furnished us all or part of its $4,600,000,000 funded debt in nicely engraved bonds of $500 to $10,000 denominations, would it buy them in when put on the market? Boasting a balanced budget and a surplus of $22,000,000 sterling, would it have to buy them to protect its credit? Or, if it did not, and the bonds went begging, like czarist or Kerensky bonds, what effect would that have? What would happen in France, Italy, Belgium and the other countries which have defaulted if the same thing were done?

Undoubtedly, these bonds would be fine examples of the engraver's skill in the countries from which they came. They would be all repudiated with scroll work, representations of the lion and the unicorn, the Gallic cock and the Italian she-wolf. As such, they would have an artistic value, even if they had no intrinsic commercial value.

Why, therefore, it is asked, should not the United States get what it can out of these beautifully executed promises to pay by selling them for souvenirs and for decorative purposes?

It is quite the mode to frame old maps, to use the illustrations in old-fashioned magazines in making lamp shades, and many persons proudly mount their college and school diplomas. Certainly, none of these things is more decorative than a promise of the mighty kingdom of Great Britain, or the republic of France, or of Italy or Belgium, to pay bearer, say $1,000, all set out in the clearest and most graceful copperplate.

Persons who had a mind to go into the thing wholesale and had the money to gratify their whim might paper a room with examples of the art of each defaulting funding nation—the French room, the English room, the Italian room, the Czechoslovakian room. It would create, say those who have thought of this plan, an exotic atmosphere, so quaint and old worldish.

Sentiment

Besides the artistic feature, there is advanced a sentimental reason. This would mainly affect those who were adults at the time of the World war when the loans were made. One of these certificates framed would be just like the sheep skin from alma mater. It would be a dear, very dear reminder of happy care-free days when money was something that came from home and not to be taken seriously. It would be the A. B. granted to the hopeful in the school of experience.

Practical

But, aside from considerations of art and sentiment, there is the practical side. That is the question of how much the United States might save from the wreck if it had to sell its collection of foreign bonds for keepsakes or designs for interior decorating.

The total principal of the foreign debts, when funded, was approximately $11,500,000,000. If all were put into foreign bonds, it would mean a consolation pot of $57,500,000.

Some patriotically inclined persons might even be inclined to pay more than $5 for one of these pretty pictures of European nations agreeing to pay Uncle Sam back. But even $57,000,000 is counted better than simply having noses thumbed at you.

There's only one catch in the plan. The nations might even refuse to deliver the pictures. (Copyright, 1934, by Paul Mallon.)

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, July 26—The flood of corporate financing anticipated after the securities act was amended hasn't come through. Off hand it looks as if the estimates of huge sums needed this year by corporations were all wet. But the real reason for industry's continued disinterest in security issues is quite different and goes much deeper.

There are dozens of companies whose credit rating is sound that could use from half a million to ten million dollars for refunding and the other purposes. You would naturally expect them to take advantage of the exceptionally cheap interest rates now available for long term money by floating bonds. Investment houses would be willing enough to do their part. Yet hardly a one has so much as tapped at its shell—and here's why.

The banks—especially several New York institutions whose officers have been too busy maintaining liquidity to talk to loan applicants for several years—are out begging for business.

Renewed

Their technique has been to approach corporations they knew were OK and ask them if they would like to raise some cash. If the answer was yes the bank representative would put on a sales patter something like this:

"Don't try to sell bonds now. Think of the risks you take under the securities act and the trouble and expense of registering with the trade commission. We'll be glad to lend you whatever you need for six or nine months and you can renew for six months more if you wish. By that time the securities act will probably be toned down some more and you won't have to go through all this hocus pocus to float an issue. Meanwhile look at the interest you save by borrowing short term money."

This advice isn't exactly disinterested. The banks are ravenous for sound loans. There's no guarantee that long term financing will be any cheaper or easier twelve or fifteen months from now—some experts predict the contrary. But a number of companies have followed the bankers' suggestion—traded by bargains in interest rates and the simplicity of bank borrowing as compared to the complications and hazards of Securities Act registration.

That's what some of the New York banks which sold government securities in the second quarter have been doing with their funds—and why you don't see many new bond issues. The stand-out point is the evidence of renewed interest in industrial credit by some of our most conservative bankers.

Mobile

Insiders will tell you that several New York banks which showed an increase in their holdings of federal obligations for the second quarter sold more long term government stuff than they bought during that period. The net gains were made in 60 or 90-day treasury bills—which hardly count. That system leaves them in a mobile position if private expansion catches hold soon in a big way.

Their published figures were perfectly proper—but they did create an impression of digging in behind federal securities which wasn't justified. The real heavy banking demand for long term government bonds has come from the smaller banks scattered around the country—not from Manhattan.

Buck

Word that the Securities and Exchange Commission will establish David Saperstein in a New York office to keep close tab on market movements fails to worry Stock Exchange circles. Instead they're quite pleased. They figure that if SEC is openly on the job of supervising market transactions it will have to take the rap for any unusual price movements that may develop.

Conversely the Securities and Exchange Commission is wary about exercising too much authority off the bat. The Stock Exchange gets word that it will be allowed to run things pretty much its own way—at least for the present. There are signs of a buck-passing contest between the Exchange and the Commission. The amenities will be scrupulously observed—but neither side would take it amiss if the public should get the impression that the other is responsible in case the market fails to behave as prettily as it should.

This doesn't imply that SEC will become a chronic buck-passer. It's just that it doesn't want to be let in for anything until it has a chance to operate by the case method.

"Collusive"

Aviation circles hear Clark Howell's investigating commission has asked experts to draw up a comprehensive airmail plan—including possible rearrangement of routes and a new division of them among the operators.

The boys ask cynically whether the famous "collusive" conference of 1930 is to be topped by a bigger and better one in 1935.

Sidelights

England plans more fighting planes and air shares soar in London. The Baker board asks more stocks from the U. S. and aviation there sink lower. . . . Former Judge David P. Lee is likely to be created state chairman. . . . He'll be built up in his job as assistant to John M. Mack in the utility investigation. . . . The National Republic club's membership drive is coming along fine.

The Sunlit Road

"As Dew to the blooms, and bud to the bee, as scent to the rose, are these memories to me."

Notwithstanding numerous facts that have come to be known of General John Hunt Morgan, who led a daring cavalry raid out of Tennessee during the Civil war to the Crubaugh farm, near West Point, where he was captured, it is not generally known that he was the brother-in-law of two outstanding officers of the Confederate army.

Of these the older of his military brothers-in-law was none other than Lieutenant General A. P. Hill, one of the three corps commanders under General Robert E. Lee. When Stonewall Jackson succumbed following wounds after the battle of Chancellorsville which, incidentally, were given him by mistake from soldiers under General Hill, General Lee made this set-up in the command under him.

General A. P. Hill had the tragic experience of meeting his end by bullets from two Pennsylvania soldiers when he was attempting to rally his men in the Wilderness campaign, on April 2, 1865, just one week before General Lee, his commander, surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox, Va. He had fought in practically every battle save that of Spotsylvania Courthouse in which the Army of Northern Virginia had engaged throughout the entire war. His was the same experience as the soldiers in the World war who lost their lives just one week before Armistice day of 1918.

Hill, the brother-in-law of General Morgan, had the distinction of being perhaps the highest ranking officer to meet his end on either side of the fighting between the states in the sixties. He was then a lieutenant general. Generals Stonewall Jackson and Albert Sidney Johnson, other outstanding casualties in the Confederate ranks, had hardly reached this rank when they paid the supreme sacrifice while facing opposing armies. No northern officer, it is believed, of rank of lieutenant general lost his life on the battlefield while the war was on.

Married in May, 1859

There was another distinction that came to General Hill, in that before his own passing Stonewall Jackson in the delirium before his own end, thought he was again directing his troops and his mind gave utterance to the wish that General Hill would go into action. Strangely enough, after life had ended for him, his old commander, five years later in 1870, General Robert E. Lee, just before the end came to him, was heard to mutter, "Have A. P. Hill come up."

It was in May of 1859, the year before Abraham Lincoln was elected President of the United States that the later General A. P. Hill married Miss Kitty Gresh Morgan, a sister of the later general John H. Morgan. He was then 34 and she 26. She survived her husband 55 years and lived until 1920 when she passed away at 87. The pair had four children. But one, Mrs. Lucy Hill Macgill, was said to be living in recent years.

There was another unique angle in the lives of these two military brothers-in-law. General Hill and General Morgan, since they were almost the same age as but 161 days separated their arrival in the world. The cavalry officer, General Morgan, was somewhat the older as he was born on June 1, 1825, and General Hill on November 9, following.

Then by a strange coincidence but 213 days separated their mutual passing, from the effects of northern bullets. It was on September 4, 1864, that General John H. Morgan was shot as he essayed escaping from a trap in Greenville, Tenn. Andrew Johnson's home town, and it was six months and 28 days later when General A. P. Hill, just returned from a sick leave, fell mortally wounded. The senior ranking officer of these two was thus four months and 23 days more than 39 years old when his life ended while the other had three months and three days of life beyond his 39th birthday. General Hill had about one month and 29 days more of life than his brother-in-law, both being virtually but young men when death came to them.

It was General Hill who started the fighting on the first day at Gettysburg while his brother-in-law was making his horseback dash northward. He had a bad time of it that initial morning, but in the afternoon with reinforcements captured 5,000 federal soldiers.

General Duke Was Author

Had General Morgan succeeded in crossing the Ohio river at the foot of Rabb's island as he was hoping to do and had the Confederates been successful at Gettysburg there may have been an unusually joyous meeting of these two brothers-in-law on Pennsylvania soil some time during that summer of 1863.

Had General Basil W. Duke, the second in command under General John H. Morgan, not been captured at Buffington's island before the raiders reached Columbiana county there would have been another of General Morgan and General A. P. Hill's brother-in-law to join in what celebration that may have ensued, for General Duke had married another sister of General Morgan, Miss Henrietta Hunt Morgan.

General Duke was 10 years younger than were Generals Morgan and Hill. He was but 28 years of age when he accompanied General Morgan on his dash from the southland into Ohio. He went out with General Morgan at the outset of the war when he was lieutenant of the Lexington, Ky. Rifles of which the then Captain John Morgan was the head.

In subsequent days General Duke was exchanged and rejoined the Confederate army as did General Morgan following his escape. He was of the final escort of Jefferson Davis and attended his last council of war. He became a lawyer and author in after years and lived until 1916, he passing at 78.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us sluggish, groggy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile does not digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements are bad and constipated and 1/2 of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (that we don't) and we feel like a whiffed tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a colored (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and seals the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢, C.B. Co., C.B. Co.

Plans for a joint convention of the Hancock and Brooke County Councils of Religious Education, to be held on October 10 and 11, were discussed and the date set, as suggested by officials of the West Virginia council, at a recent meeting of the two executive committees at Holliday's Cove recently.

The Hancock county council is made up of three district organizations, the Grant district unit, including churches in Chester and Newell. The other units are in Clay and Butler district. Mrs. R. B. Murray of New Cumberland is president of the Hancock county unit, while Dr. Josiah Osmond of Wellsburg heads the Brooke council.

Chester and Newell churches will be represented at the convention. An invitation was extended by the Butler district unit of the Hancock county council to hold the convention in the Weirton-Holliday's Cove district, the church to be made later.

THEY ARE PRAISED- IN DILLINGER CASE

Two of the several detectives whose work in tracking down John Dillinger won special praise were Martin Zarkovich (left), policeman of East Chicago, Ind., who gave up his va-

"THE SILVER CORD," WITH MISS DUNNE, AMERICAN BILL

"Clancy on Wall Street" Also in Twin Attraction.

A heart-throb story of a bride's triumph over a conniving mother-in-law abounds in dramatic thrills for every film fan who visits the American theater to see "The Silver Cord," starring Irene Dunne. Also on the American's current program is "Clancy on Wall Street" featuring Charles Murray.

Miss Dunne in "The Silver Cord," enacting a modern wife, contributes a splendid performance against a background of elaborate settings and splendid photography. As Christina, she rises in magnificent wrath against the insidious tactics employed by a selfish mother who seeks to retain her sons' love exclusively for herself, unconcerned with their normal impulses to live with mates of their own choice.

A cast of extraordinary talent supports Miss Dunne in "The Silver Cord." Laura Hope Crews, creator of the mother role in the original Theater Guild production of the Sidney Howard play, enacts her part masterfully. Joel McCrea, as David, is genuinely the perfect son torn between the loves of his wife and mother. Eric Linden and Frances Dee, as the younger son and his fiancée, also give brilliant characterizations.—W. L. W.

MISS TWELVETREES, DONALD WOODS ON SCREEN AT STATE

Elisabeth Cobb Drama, "She Was a Lady," Opens Here.

By a woman . . . about a woman . . . for all women!

Thus briefly is summed up "She Was a Lady," the new Fox Film drama by Elisabeth Cobb, which opened Wednesday at the State theater, with Helen Twelvetrees in the outstanding role of her career.

Based on the struggle of a girl to surmount the handicap of a family skeleton and win the right to life and love, the film moves against the multiple background of a Montana ranch, a traveling circus, New York night life and a stately old English castle.

As the ill-starred heroine of the drama, Miss Twelvetrees is credited with a performance which surpasses all her previous contributions to screen history. In the early scenes on the ranch and later as a circus-rider she demonstrates her skill as an equestrienne; then undergoes a transition which reveals her as the dramatic actress by which audiences have come to know her.

Appearing opposite Miss Twelvetrees as the romantic leading man is Donald Woods, and his performance, too, has been heralded as a fresh triumph for him.—R. S. E.

Far From Roar

ABOARD S. S. MALOLO, July 26.—I used to didn't pay much attention to reports of the heat all over the east and middle west—just naturally figured that it was the California papers' usual license, but our ship radio newspaper every day says it's terrible and naturally you got to believe them. They got no lots to sell.

Mr. Roosevelt is out here somewhere on Japan's ocean fishing. It's awful long way to come out here, so he couldn't hear the Republicans roar and to get away from any new scheme that his own gang might cook up.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, when cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds, because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Matthews Cut Rate invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—Adv.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

INJURIES HAMPER MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS

Yankees Cut Lead Of Tigers

Loss of Combs Fails To Dismay New York Team.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

Unless there is a sudden change in the luck of the American league clubs, the 1934 campaign may become known as the "hospital season" of big league baseball.

Starting with the pre-season mishap in which Rabbit Maranville broke his leg, there has been a steady trail of injuries through both major circuits. Much of Washington's decline can be attributed to various injuries; there are difficulties such as those which have kept Lefty Grove from pitching his usual brand of ball for the Red Sox and now comes Earle Combs' crash into a St. Louis fence which has cost the Yankees the services of their fleet outfielder and left them in a precarious position as regards to the pennant race.

Red Sox Down Tigers

The Yanks refused to be dismayed by the loss of Combs and promptly stepped out yesterday to defeat the Browns 5 to 4, and re-dubbed Detroit's lead to a single game when the Red Sox bludgeoned out a 9 to 7 decision over the Tigers.

Babe Ruth, still bothered by the leg injury he suffered in Cleveland and at the best only a part-time player, had to step into action. Then Ben Chaman was forced out by a recurrence of the charley horse which has troubled him. Dixie Walker, one of the few outfield reserves, is troubled by a weak arm. It was Sammy Byrd, leader of the Yanks' replacements who finally settled yesterday's argument. He plastered Ed Wells, a former Yank for a home run with two aboard in the sixth to provide the winning run.

Detroit made one big bid for victory by landing on Wes Ferrell with both feet in the second inning to score six runs and tie the count after Boston had pummeled Eldon Auker around in the first two innings.

Indians Whip A's

Down in third place Cleveland's Indians assaulted four Philadelphia throwers to overcome an early lead and defeat the Athletics 8 to 3 for their eighth victory in their last 10 games. The last-place Chicago White Sox sailed to Washington's woes when George Earnshaw blanked the Senators 4 to 0 with a seven-hit performance.

Many day along the eastern seaboard wiped out most of the National league program but gave the Boston Braves a chance to consolidate their hold on fourth place, going a game ahead of Pittsburgh with a double victory over Cincinnati. Pinky Whitney's homer gave them a 2-1 victory in the opener, then Marty McManus hit for the circuit with the bases loaded to help win the second clash, 7 to 3.

DROUTH HITS LAND TURTLES

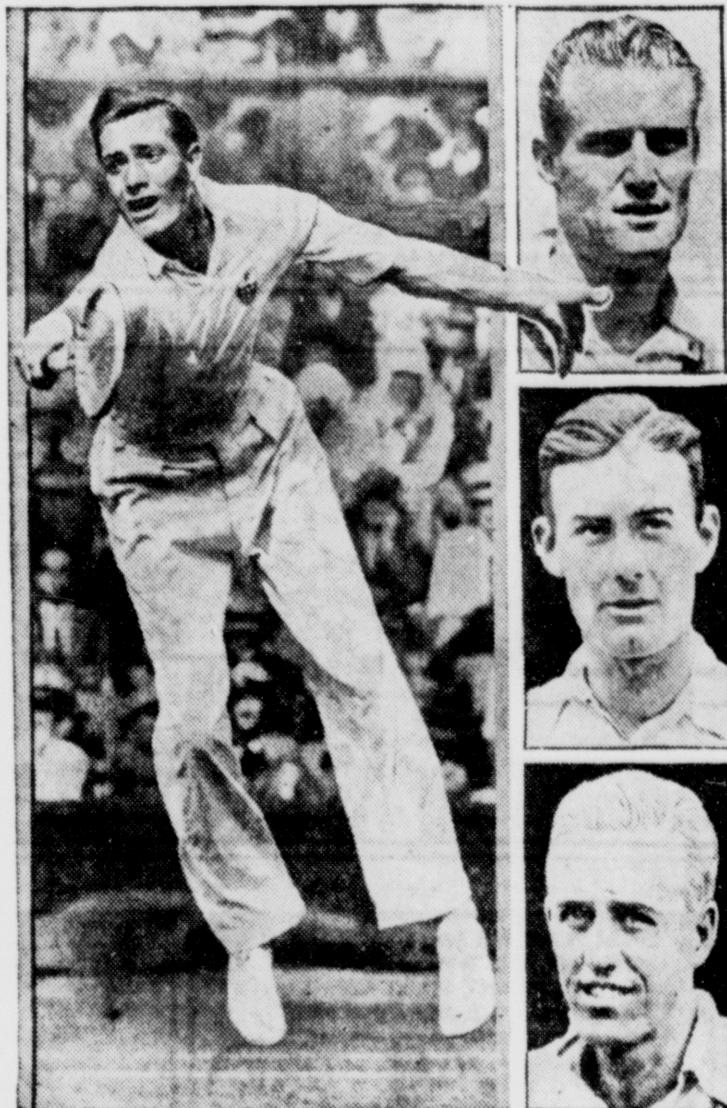

MARIETTA.—Ordinarily, the world hears little complaint from land turtles and it's a question of all minding their own business all around, but Fred and Walter Barth stumbled onto evidence near here that the creatures have their troubles, even with a drouth.

The men discovered 47 of them grouped around a spring. Water had become scarce and by some magic best known to tortoises, the creatures had located the spring. The Barths took them into the open and photographed them as a family group, to prove their story.

AMATEURS MUST GET FULL PAY

CLEVELAND, July 26.—Neighborhood theaters who run so-called "amateur nights" hereafter will have to pay each performer a minimum wage of $7.50 a day if they pay anything at all, according to a ruling of Ansel R. Cleary, state NRA labor compliance officer.

Cleary's ruling followed a complaint filed by a Clevelander who sought stage honors with his tenor voice, but found his offers unremunerative.

A booking agent said the singer was "an amateur who deserved the 'hook,' and frequently got it from the more demonstrative audiences."

Oddly, had the vocalist won in the contest for the most applause he would have lost his "amateur standing," and been eligible for the minimum wage.

MOST GRADUATES GET EMPLOYMENT

CLEVELAND, July 26.—Fenn college here contributes few unemployed to the jobless world. Of 110 graduates this year, 100 already are employed, with the other 10 expecting work before fall.

The institution's officials said they felt the unusual record was due largely to the co-operative system of education in which its students alternate industrial employment and college classes by 12-week shifts.

Under the plan of "growing up with industry," the work-study combination continues for five years, netting students two full years' practical experience on the day of graduation.

INDIANS GIVEN HOMESTEAD SITES

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—Homeless Red Men of Great Falls Hill tribe, will be the first Montana beneficiaries under the homestead subsistence plan. Federal officials announced that the Indians, numbering about 125 persons, who for years have made their homes on a hillside near the city, would be given tracts of land to work.

They are outcasts from many tribes, individuals who, for various reasons, have been unable to obtain tribal benefits on any reservation.

During extremely hot weather in New York city, city officials noted an increase in mortality.

McKian Baffles Champs

Archie Whips Birds For Fourth Time

By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 26.—Whatever the other clubs of the American association think about Archie McKain of Louisville, the Columbus Red Birds are ready to admit he is a great pitcher.

Yesterday, for the fourth straight time in the season, McKain conquered the 1933 league champions. The score was 8 to 4. To date, he has allowed Ray Blades' club five runs and 24 hits in 36 innings.

More bad luck overtook Minneapolis. The Millers lost to Milwaukee, 14 to 8, and lost, temporarily, the services of Abby Wright, its No. 2 home run man, and another outfielder, Joyner. Each crashed into the right field wall.

Milwaukee turned up with its third triple play of the season. In the fourth inning, Joe Hauser walked and Pinky Hargrave singled. Buzz Arlett grounded to Billy Sullivan, who touched third, forcing Hauser and fired to Lin Storti to get Hargrave. Storti's throw to Ernie Wingard was quick enough to catch the slow-moving Arlett at first.

A neat pitching performance by Lefty Bob Logan gave Indianapolis a 6 to 0 victory over Toledo and an even break in the series. Logan gave seven hits. Scoring four runs in the first inning and another in the fourth, Kansas City defeated St. Paul, 5 to 4, in a night game.

YANK FEIDER HURT

Earl Combs, above, veteran outfielder of the New York Yankees, is reported in a serious condition, in a St. Louis hospital from injuries he received when he crashed into the left field bleacher wall while attempting to catch a fly ball. Combs' injuries consist of a fractured skull and a broken collar bone.

Diegel, Hagen In Defeats

Youngsters Set Hot Pace in Pro Golf Play.

By The Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., July 26.—Gene Sarazen was left almost alone today to meet the defiant challenge of fame-seeking youngsters in the battle for the Professional Golfers' association championship now held by the stocky campaigner.

Gene were two of his great fellow veterans—Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel. They fell by the wayside in the first match play round yesterday.

Some oldsters were left, among them "Light Horse" Harry Cooper and the Black Scot, Tommy Armour.

Hagen bowed to Denny Shute of Philadelphia, former British open champion, and Diegel yielded to Fay Coleman of Culver City, Cal., while even Sarazen had to put on the pressure to turn back a New York youngster, Herman Barron.

"These kids are tough, real tough," said Gene after his 3 and 2 victory over the 26-year-old unemployed pro. "Hagen's gone and so is Diegel and that leaves it up to me." Among them this trio has held the P. G. A. title 10 of the past 14 years.

By "these kids," Sarazen meant not only Shute and Coleman, but Ky Lafoon, from Denver, who all but scalped Horton Smith yesterday in winning by a record score of 12 and 10; Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Dick Metz of Chicago, Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee and Craig Wood of Deal, N. J. Wood hardly comes under that classification for he's a little older than the others, but he's a "kid" to Sarazen.

CLEVELAND, O., July 26.—The annual state amateur golf tournament is a matter of 17 Cleveland clubbers against the rest of the state as match play for the championship gets under way today.

Leading the delegation is Maurice McCarthy, Jr. of Cleveland, former member of the United States Walker Cup team, who in the 36-hole qualifier turned in a score of 140 to win medalist honors.

The 36-hole final test will come Saturday with two 18-hole match play rounds scheduled for today and tomorrow.

Next to McCarthy perhaps, the sensation of yesterday's play was Clyde Mumma of Dayton, whose only trouble seems to be that he hits the ball too far. Mumma's drives, it was estimated, averaged 360 yards, which is considerable yardage.

Mumma finished six strokes behind McCarthy with 146. Next came Harry Sweitzer of Cleveland with 147. The defending champion, Bob Servis of Dayton, was fourth with 148 and Barney Hunt of Columbus, fifth with 149.

Among others who will provide competition for these leaders during the next two days are Bob Kepler of Dayton, John Florio of Columbus, Raleigh Lee of Columbus and Mel Carpenter and Bill Lanman, also of Columbus.

Joe M. Wells of East Liverpool, amateur king in 1922 and 1924, missed qualifying by two strokes, having a 36-hole total of 160, while 158 gained a place in the match play. Wells shot a 78 yesterday to pair with his 82 of Tuesday.

CELEBRATION STAMP ISSUED

SHERBROOKE, Quebec.—The 150th anniversary of the final settlement of the United Empire Loyalists in the eastern townships section of Quebec, and in other parts of Canada, is being commemorated this summer with issuance of a 10-cent Canadian postage stamp.

Although known as the French Canadian province, Quebec has in its eastern townships section a bloc of inhabitants who are descendants of the Loyalists who followed the Union Jack across the northern boundary of the original 13 states, when they won their independence at the close of the American Revolution.

As a consequence of the commemoration, letters which American tourists write the folks back home, if weighty enough, will carry an olive green stamp, the design of which has as its central panel a sculptured group portraying a man, a woman and two children standing between the figures of Britannia and a North American Indian.

Runaway Horses Are Halted By Automobile

TIFFIN, July 26.—An automobile was used here to bring a team of runaway horses under control. The team driven by Fred Hunken, got out of control and dashed away. An automobile drove in front of the horses, forcing them to crash into the rear end of the car. One of the occupants grabbed the bit on one of the horses, holding on until the team became quieted.

STOCK MARKET SALES HEAVY

Metals Lead Decline During Second Hour Of Trading.

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 26.—Heavy selling hit the stock market at the start of the second hour of trading today. Metals led the decline, while rails and numerous industrial shares were quick to follow. Many shares touched new lows for the year.

U. S. Smelting and Howe Sound lost four or more points each. Declines of one to two or more were suffered by U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, New York Central, Montgomery Ward, American Tobacco B. General Motors, American Can, Sears-Roebuck, Johns-Manville and United Aircraft. Call money renewed at one per cent.

Aside from the foreign situation and reports of the devastation caused by prolonged heat and drought in the west, the overnight news background of financial markets consisted chiefly of additional second quarter corporate earnings statements and more June railroad revenue reports.

Earnings reports made a mixed picture, mostly favorable for the second quarter and mostly unfavorable so far as comparison of railroad statements with 1933 showing was concerned.

LABOR BOARD SEEKS PEACE

Steel Mediators Hope to Bring Amity Between Union, Republic Steel Corporation.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Reporting progress, but making no definite promises, the steel labor board today continued its efforts to bring amity between the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the Republic Steel Corporation which three weeks ago declined to renew its wage pact with the association.

Chairman Stacy of the board and representatives of the two factions would make little comment concerning the negotiations here.

"We're just trying to bring both sides together," Stacy said.

An international vice president of the association, Edward W. Miller of Pittsburgh, said how, however, that fears expressed by the company that a "radical element" is growing in the association were a "thin alibi."

A new influence in the union was evident, however, in the announcement in Pittsburgh of candidates for the association's primary election Sept. 15. Three candidates are opposing Michael F. Tighe, veteran president of the association, in the fight for the presidency.

Contests in other offices of the association indicated the enthusiasm with which the "rank and file" members of the association are fighting for leadership in the union. Tighe is opposed by Earl J. Forbeck of McKeesport, Pa., B. F. Bennett of Granite City, Ill., and George J. Williams of Canonsburg, Ohio.

WHEAT CONTROL PLAN CHANGED

Farmers in United States May Return Crops to Normal Acreages Next Year.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—A sweeping change in the AAA's wheat control tactics was under consideration today as the drought tightened its disastrous grip. Instead of plowing under to cut the crop, officials studied a plan to return to virtually normal acreages next year—but with an ace in the hole. If restricted production were found necessary, part of the crop would be harvested while still green to be used for forage.

Uncertainties in the world wheat situation, as well as lessons learned from the drought, influence the plans.

The new control idea would enable the nation's farmers to harvest the crop on normal acreages if that much wheat is needed next season or if the world wheat export agreement collapses and the United States desires more grain for export.

Farmers could be held under contract to harvest unmaturing wheat for forage on government instructions.

TRUSTY TURNS THUMBER.
PADUCAH, Ky.—Richard Knight, 29, thumbed his way back into jail. Sheriff Cliff Shemwell discovered the hitch-hiker he picked up was Knight, a trusty, missing for five days after telling a deputy jailer he'd "be back in five minutes."

WELL OVERFLOWS

WALDO, Kas.—A 50-foot well on the farm of George Balm went almost dry a month ago because of the drought. This week water began rising and is now running over the top continually. He and neighbors are unable to explain the phenomenon.

CANDIDATES IN OHIO ACTIVE

Republicans, Democrats Seek Votes At Rallies.

By The Associated Press.
The heat may be keeping a few voters away from the assembly halls, but not the candidates.

They turned up in all corners of the state Wednesday and found citizens to listen. In fact, 10,000 persons were on hand at an outing of the Grocers' and Butchers' association in New Philadelphia to greet Vic Donahay, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, and his rival for the nomination, Gov. George White.

Donahay met many of his old friends and spent only five minutes formally announcing that if elected he would "serve the people honestly and to the best of my ability."

Gov. White said "the American people have chosen to accept a new economic philosophy, that workers should have a greater portion of the yield of their labors."

At Greenville, Congressman Charles West who is opposing White and Donahay, praised the federal government's farm program and said "the AAA has helped the farmers of Ohio and all other states where advantage has been taken of its provisions."

Edward Lamb, a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination said at Cincinnati that "the United States will not get out of this depression unless a greater economic security is assured to all farmers and workers."

At Steubenville, Clarence J. Brown, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor urged action to remedy "defects" in the Ohio workmen's compensation law, and said that "slovenly methods and downright dishonesty have grown up in the administration of workmen's compensation matters through the years."

John A. Elden, Republican candidate for the nomination for governor, told a Sandusky audience he is "against any new form of a taxation except as may be necessary to keep the schools open."

Martin L. Davey, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, also speaking in Sandusky, said that an "Ohio liquor ring" had control of the sale of liquor to the state.

FERA TO OFFER FREE CLASSES

College Courses for High School Graduates to be Available in Ohio Next Fall.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 26.—Sub-colleges—classes in college subjects for high school graduates financially unable to continue their education will be operated by the federal emergency schools administration in Ohio school centers next fall.

A committee of educators and relief administrators will determine the centers where the courses will be offered. Dr. B. O. Skinner, state education director, announced.

He said the FERA has furnished the state with $115,800 to hire 1930 teachers at $60 a month to conduct the classes. The classes will be closed to any boy or girl whose parents are able to send them to college. The instructors to obtain the positions must be at once unemployed, needy and competent.

Courses will be designed, he said, to assist students in their future life and also employ their leisure time. Other emergency adult classes will be given in literacy, vocational training, vocational rehabilitation and general adult education. Nursery schools also will be established.

Another Food Supply To Be Distributed Here

Another supply of lard, canned beef and potatoes will be distributed to families on relief in East Liverpool, at the Central fire station all day Friday and Saturday morning. The applicants are asked to bring baskets.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

SYNOPSIS: Sergeant Harper and the policeman found dead in Pierre Dufresne's house were murdered and did not shoot each other. But the motive of the crime, the identity of the stranger, and the means of escape used by the murderer still are a mystery. Harper has discovered, however, the print of Dufresne's butler's thumb on one of a set of threatening letters received by Dufresne. Andrews, frightened, denies all knowledge of the letters.

Chapter 38
ANGER

"Andrews, fingerprints do not lie."

"These must. I tell you, I knew nothing about it. Besides, I was at the Austerlitz last night. You know that."

"Sure, I know it. You've got an ironclad alibi. Quite true, but there was more than one in this plot."

"When I got to the Austerlitz, why were you so nervous, Andrews? I hadn't yet told my news, but you were already upset, jumpy. Why were you so agitated when I insisted on rousing your master? Why all this, if you knew nothing about what had happened?"

Once again the man exhibited all the signs of an intense inward struggle to repress an emotional strain. By sheer force of will Andrews pulled himself together. "I had strict orders not to disturb Mr. Dufresne on any account." He faltered on, "You see, sir, I knew he was intoxicated and didn't want a stranger to see him in that condition."

"You're lying, Andrews. There's something else. Mr. Dufresne was more than half drunk when I left him the first time."

Sergeant Harper spoke out of the certainty of his conviction. The butler's words were plausible, yes, but there was that indefinable something in his tone that convinced the detective that Andrews was uneasy at mention of the Austerlitz surprise visit.

"Furthermore," Harper continued, "some one spied on us while we were searching the cellar this morning. The result was the hiding of the gun that had been in Mr. Dufresne's room. Those are overt acts and some one is going to answer for them."

Andrews' eyes glistened as he squared his shoulders and faced the detective squarely. "If you think I am guilty, I'd prefer that you repeat those charges before Mr. Dufresne," he challenged.

"That's not a bad idea," Harper snapped, and strode over to the bell. Dufresne made a prompt appearance.

The detective repeated the account of his discovery and placed both letter and goblet before the dapper man, silent and attentive until Harper had finished.

Then Dufresne pushed the exhibit aside without a glance. "I'm not surprised that you've come to some such idiotic conclusion," he said. "There is no question as to Andrews' loyalty. I would as soon accuse myself." He put his hand on the old man's shoulder with a gesture of affection.

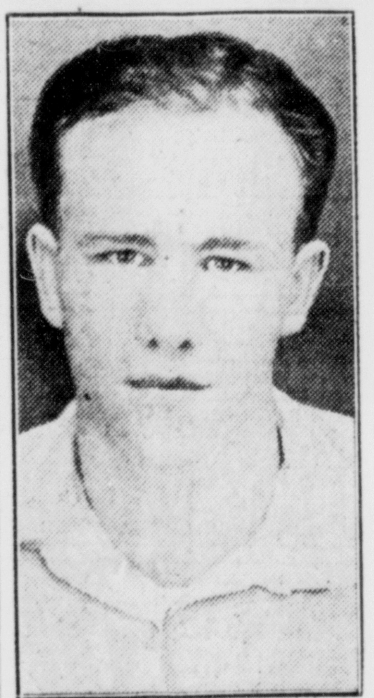

Harper's anger mounted, too. "This mutual loyalty is very touching but it still doesn't explain how Andrews' thumb print came to be on this letter. That certainly calls for an explanation."

Dufresne turned to his servant. "Have we any stationery like that in the house?"

"No, sir. We've never used tinted paper of any kind."

"It's strange that every letter is a different color," Dufresne commented thoughtfully. "Stationery is

Your Health

By Dr. R. S. Copeland.

The number of life guards stationed along the beach front of a large public beach, proves to the bystander that the authorities are well aware of the many dangers confronting bathers. These able men are prepared for any emergency and a well-manned staff of life guards will be found on duty at all times the beaches are open to the public.

The danger in swimming is not always due just to the treacherous water. The swimmer fails at times to realize his shortcomings and neglects to take necessary precautions. Poor swimmers often indulge in strenuous swimming, little realizing that in case of an emergency they would be unable to help themselves, because their strength had been expended in the first few strokes. Good swimmers may overtax themselves. They become fatigued or perhaps are seized with sudden cramps and so endanger their lives.

One should never go in swimming too soon after a hearty meal. Trained athletes allow at least one hour of rest after any meal before entering the water.

Swimming, like other exercises, should be indulged in moderately—never to excess. Many muscles are brought into use while swimming. It is one of the most strenuous forms of exercise. When indulged in moderately sufficient relaxation is obtained and great benefit results from this form of exercise.

During the summer months and particularly while you are away on your vacation, be sure that you swim where you are certain the water is safe. Determine its depth before attempting to dive and be sure you know your own strength before venturing far from shore. Swimming in polluted water is dangerous. Fortunately, the state and local boards of health keep the swimming places posted and you may feel perfectly safe in swimming in approved pools or other waters.

Persons who are overweight find swimming especially beneficial. Here, too, the importance of over-exertion must not be disregarded. Half an hour a day in the water, in addition to attention to the diet, will go far in helping to take off excess fat.

Persons afflicted with high blood pressure, heart disease or other abnormal conditions, should avoid surf bathing. In some cases the physician may grant permission to bathe in a lake or in still water. But moderation should be the rule in all such cases. It is always best to consult your own physician if there is any doubt in your mind as to whether you should indulge in this sport.

Let me warn you never to overtax your strength while swimming. Avoid staying in the water too long. Be careful not to go too far out. If the life guard warns you against being caught in an undertow, heed his advice. He knows where you should swim and is assigned to protect you from harm.

Every child should be taught to swim at an early age. Children or adults who are unable to swim are handicapped. Needless to say they should never be allowed in deep or treacherous waters.

HIJACKERS LIBERATED

TIFFIN, O., July 26.—Because courts have held that hi-jacking of slot machines is not a crime, inasmuch as the machines themselves are gambling devices and prohibited, K. J. The two men were arrested July 15, after they are said to have taken three slot machines from a Bloomville, O., hotel.

THE OHIO POWER COMPANY

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

You would not smilingly submit to protest, yet strangely enough, some people actually applaud the efforts of legislators to impose added tax burdens on public utilities. Such persons do not realize that the utility's only source of revenue is from users of our service. More and more uses for electricity are being discovered and applied. The more it is used the greater the savings we can return to our customers provided that taxes do not eat up the savings.

This company has for many years supplied you with electricity at rates which have been constantly reduced. These reductions, made possible by economies and increased use of current, have brought down the average cost of household electricity to our customers, over 27% since 1927.

The possibility of future return of savings to you in the form of reduced rates is becoming extremely doubtful because the oppressive burden of taxation imposed upon us absorbs more than can be saved.
